Randie works extensively with the designing and drafting of various health and welfare benefit plans, ERISA claims and appeals compliance, HIPAA privacy and security, employee benefits issues in mergers and acquisitions, fiduciary counseling, and contract negotiation involving a variety of providers, insurers and third-party administrators.

Randie works from Denver, Colorado where she lives with her husband and two children.

Brigid Carroll Anderson has 30 years’ experience in employee benefits law, having served most recently as Director of Seminars for Thomson Reuters where she oversaw EBIA seminars on health care reform, HIPAA, and other benefits topics and contributed to EBIA compliance manuals for employers and advisors.

Prior to EBIA, Brigid spent 10 years in private practice, advising employees, employers and multiemployer plans on the ERISA and other benefit issues. In addition, Brigid represented clients in benefits litigation. She began her legal career in the litigation department of a major New York City law firm.
